SecureTech Systems Wins Bid to Improve Court Security in Nova Scotia, Canada

FORT WORTH, Texas, March 31, 2009 -- SecureTech Systems has won a bid to provide panic/duress alarm systems for the provincial courts of Nova Scotia, Canada.

SecureTech is the world's leading supplier of instant notification systems that automate dispatch by transmitting alarms directly over radio networks.

SecureTech's system, known as the WAVE, is an efficient and cost-effective panic/duress alarm. The WAVE is an ideal solution for court houses or any other facility where emergency personnel carry two-way radios.

When a panic button is pressed, the WAVE transmits a detailed message over the radios that are already carried by court security officers.

SecureTech's president, Juliana Goldenberg, notes, "When you need help, time is everything. The WAVE provides instant communication over existing hand-held radios and tells officers throughout the facility the exact location of the emergency."

About SecureTech Systems

SecureTech was founded in 1994 and has installed over 1,200 systems in courts, schools, colleges, hospitals, stadiums, parks and other facilities.
