The WAVE goes Mobile!

SecureTech Systems is proud to announce that Guardian Security Solutions has joined the SecureTech authorized dealer team. The world's leading instant notification system is now on display in Guardian's mobile demo center.

The mobile demo center is a converted full-size RV and can be driven to any customer location in the Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona or New Mexico region to show how the WAVE system can be integrated with camera, access control and other security systems.

Guardian has been located in Lubbock, Texas for over 17 years and has specialized in providing reliable, high quality, equipment to protect people and property.

Guardian carries a wide range security, surveillance and counter-surveillance tools. Guardian also provides consulting and training services to law enforcement, intelligence agencies, corporate professionals and private individuals. Their products include innovative video surveillance and access control products such as covert video surveillance cameras, wireless security camera systems, commercial grade video transmitters, recorders, monitors, and remote video surveillance systems.

SecureTech's system, known as the WAVE, is an ideal security solution for courthouses, schools, hospitals and other facilities. When a wireless sensor such as a panic button is triggered, the WAVE instantly transmits a detailed alarm message over the radios that are carried by law enforcement or security officers. The alarm message provides the precise location and nature of the incident.

According to SecureTech's sales manager, David Jacobs, "Guardian's mobile demo center helps to show how easily the WAVE can be integrated with other security systems to add value."

SecureTech Systems is the world's leading supplier of wireless instant notification systems. SecureTech was founded in 1994 and has installed over 1,400 systems in courts, schools, colleges, hospitals and other facilities nationwide. References are available upon request.
